

Can the Human Race Survive the Human Race?

An Optimist's View of the Challenges of Building a Sustainable Future

An Evening of Conversation and Innovative Ideas with Dan Chiras, Ph.D., Sustainable Futures Society

Humans come with the same warranty as the dinosaurs.
Will we grasp opportunities now to forge a sustainable society, or continue along our current path to planetary peril?

Come learn about important environmental trends, essentials of sustainable systems design, and vital new efforts to create an enduring and sustainable human presence on Earth.

Thursday, October 23, 2003
7:00 - 9:00 PM

at the Colorado Mountain Club's
"American Mountaineering Center"
710 10th Street, Golden

General Admission - $10.00
Students (with valid ID) - $5.00

To RSVP or find out more information, contact Macon Cowles:
(303) 447-3062 / macon.cowles@comcast.net

Sponsored by the Sustainable Futures Society and the Colorado Mountain Club

DAN CHIRAS, Ph.D., is an adjunct professor at Colorado College, the University of Colorado at Denver, and the University of Denver, where he teaches courses on sustainable development, energy, and ecological design. He has pioneered a systems approach to sustainable development, and has played a lead role in articulating the principles, policies, and practices of sustainable development.

Dan has published 18 books, several of which are used as college and high school textbooks. He has written over 200 articles on environmental issues and sustainable development in magazines, journals, newspapers and encyclopedias.

His book, Environmental Science: Creating a Sustainable Future, was recently banned for use in high schools throughout Texas. He was interviewed about this by Tom Brokaw on NBC's Nightly News.

“Can the Human Race Survive the Human Race?” with Dan Chiras, Ph. D.

Thursday, October 23, 2003
7:00 – 9:00 PM

at the Colorado Mountain Club’s
“American Mountaineering Center”
710 10th Street, Golden

*Plenty of Free Parking is Available
Just Across the Street from the Center*

*Arrive early to network and browse through all of Dan’s
(and other authors’) books on Sustainable Development*

Please Join Us for an Evening of Education and Inspiration!

